

Top Brass Stays Perfectly In Place At Sydney Domestic Terminal

Brass Edge, Sydney Domestic Terminal.

EJ brass edged covers at the Qantas Domestic Terminal, Sydney Airport were installed during the massive upgrade required for the Sydney 2000 Olympic Games.

17 years on and hundreds of thousands of boots, shoes and luggage trolleys ruggedly scurrying over them, they have retained their infills, shapes and tight fit without so much as a squeak of movement.

If its longevity you're needing to specify on these kinds of infrastructure projects, why would you consider other options when EJ clearly, through design excellence and hard experience, produce such first class assets.

Years of trouble free service in high traffic applications are amongst the invisible benefits built into all EJ product. The innovation from design to product in the ground is based on providing quality solutions. Manufacturing processes are stringently quality controlled, too, starting with quality raw materials and ending with the finally finessed product delivered to site often within seemingly impossible timeframes.
